GLOOMY MEETING OF THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

ONLY TWENTY-TWO OF THE FIFTY-ONE REGULAR MEMBERS ON DECK-APPOINTMENT OF COM-MITTEES PROVIDED FOR-CHAIRMAN JONES FUSSES OVER TICKETS FOR TO-NIGHT'S MEETING-TALKS WITH SOME OF THE

POLITICIANS. The meeting of the Democratic National Committee at the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday presented such a selemn and melancholy spectacle that ne of the onlookers were reminded of a play which people at seaside and mountain resorts occasionally make use of to kill time. When the players are arranged in a circle one says to another: is indeed a very solemn occasion!" Then all unite in the chorus: "Um-m-mph!" Um-m-m-mph!" When anybody laughs he is obliged to go out of the

There was no laughter among the members of the committee when they assembled in Parlors D R of the hotel soon after noon and proceeded to count oses, but if appearances were not deceitful they were an uncomfortable collection of men. Senator James K. Jones of Arkansas, the chairman of the committee, had been fussing and fuming about the parlors for some time before the meeting was called order by him, and he looked as if he was nearly ready to collapse on account of the heat. The other members of the committee wore thin clothes mopped their steaming faces and waved fans. Although two electric fans were running at high speed in the room the air seemed so close that it was almost suffocating, and the men gasped for breath after the exertion of speaking. Senator Jones had been much disturbed, apparently, because there had not been a larger allowance of tickets to the notification meeting at the Madison Square Garden for the members of the National Committee. He had a talk with Mr. St. John, the treasurer of the committee, on the sub ject, and "Jimmy" Oliver, the acting sergeant-atarms, was sent on a run over to Mr. St. John's office the Hotel Bartholdi, to hunt for more tickets. When Mr. Oliver returned, with bulging pockets and a wilted appearance, Senator Jones was far being satisfied. Some of the members of the committee also expressed their pain and surprise that more tickets had not been allotted to them, and was almost a revolt when it was announced that three tickets apiece was all they could expect From the talk just before the chair man called the meeting to order, a stranger would have thought that the business of dividing up the tickets to the notification meeting was the business which the committee had been called together to transact.

C. A. Walsh, the member of the committee from lowa, who was the secretary, carried with him a fine halo, which made some of the other members feel even more uncomfortable when they looked at Apparently he had been caught out in the hot sunlight without his hat, and the top of his bald ful to behold. When Mr. Waish called the roll of the committee it was ascertained that only twenty two of the fifty-one regular members were present, while thirteen were represented by proxies and sixteen were absent and not represented. Senator Jones and Senator Gorman each had two votes in the committee, each acting as a proxy for an absent

BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

About the first business which was transacted after the rollcall was the passage of a resolution ex pressing the thanks of the committee for the trouble which Treasurer St. John had taken in making the arrangements for the notification meeting. In view of the wrangle over the tickets, it was hard to say if there was no irony in the resolution, but Mr. S John, who was present, appeared to think that he was getting something for his trouble. Liquid re freshments did not have the effect to make the members of the committee feel equal to much dishis own way. There was no objection when Senator Gorman presented for him a set of resolutions which he had prepared, giving to him the power to name

Resolved, That the Chairman of the National Com-mittee is hereby authorized to appoint an executive committee, to consist of twenty-five members, as campaign committee, to consist of nine members, and a finance committee, to consist of twenty-five members, and that the chairman of this committee shall be ex-officio a member of each of said commit-atthorizes as he may deem necessary for the conduct of the campaign.

Resolved, That the conduct of the campaign shall be under the charge of the Campaign Committee, and that the said committee is hereby empowered to select its own casirman from among its own members, or from the members of the National Committee, or any person not a member of such Campaign Committee or National Committee, and said Campaign Committee is further authorized to appoint such number of advisory members of said committee, not members of the National Committee, as it may deem proper; and in all matters which are to be determined by said committee only the regular members of said Campaign Committee, including the chairman of the National Committee, shall vote.

talk about a suitable place for the Democratic headquarters for the campaign. A motion was passed at length authorizing the chairman of the National Committee and the Campaign Committee headquarters as soon as possible. Senator Jones, who will thus have power to select the place for the headquarters, said he would consult Mr. Bryan and Mr. Sewall before making any choice. It is said that the reception of Mr. Bryan in this city might have some effect on the choice of a place for the Democratic headquarters. The committee adjourned to meet again in the same parlors at noon to-day. Chairman Jones said later that he would not ap point any of the sub-committees until to-day, and he would talk with Mr. Bryan on the subject first.

Possibly he may announce the sub-committees at to-day's meeting of the National Committee.

ATTENDING TO TICKETS. For nearly half an hour after the committee adjourned Chairman Jones continued to fuss and fiddle-faddle over the tickets to the notification He counted all the tickets twice, with the aid of "Jimmy" Oliver and Secretary Walsh, before he could be sure that none of the tickets had got away. Then he attended personally to the distribution of the tickets among the members of the committee, putting three tickets in an enthe committee, putting three treats in an evelope and calling upon the member to come forward and receive his envelope, while Mr. Oliver called out to Mr. Walsh; "Check off Idaho. Mark down Connecticut. Check Arizona," and so on to attended, the sermon being preached by the Rev the end. The first smiles of the afternoon were G. W. attending to such details. Comparatively few Democratic politicians were in then lobby of the hotel when the meeting of the National Committee was in progress, and those who were present remarked the apparent lack of interest in the proceedings. After the meeting adjourned and the members of the committee made their way into the corridors, there were some strangely mixed groups of politicians. Senator Jones, Senator Gorman, William P. St. John and others elbowed with N. B. Scott, the member of the Executive Committee of the Republican National Committee from West Virginia; General William M. Osborne, secretary of the National Committee, Frederick S. Gibbs, Senator Elkins and other Republicans. All sides of the case could be heard on every hand, and the political atmosphers was badly muddled.

Mr. Scott, who is practically in charge of the Eastern headquarters of the Republican National Committee, said that there was nothing particularly terrifying in the appearance of the Democrats. "We are getting along all right now," he said, "and we have no fear." I am daily in receipt of letters from all over the country that are of the said, "and we have no fear." I am daily in receipt of letters from all over the country that are of the most satisfactory kind. I got yesterday a letter from a friend of mine in Cripple Creek, with whom I am interested in some mines. The letter was not one from him alone, but it also bore the signature of many others who wished to testify to what he said. He declared that the Republicans were thinking deeply over the situation. They have had one or two sad experiences with Populism, and they are not ready to take another chance. With a third ticket in the field, the impression out there is that we can carry the State. So it is all over the country.

country." Senator Gorman, cool and stately as ever, walked slowly through the corridor. The Senator is always studiously reserved, but courteons, and never shows his feelings. He was introduced yesterday by Senator Jones to a number of the members of the National Committee. His meeting with some of the Southern and Western members was some of the Southern and Western members was not especially cordial.

"The National Committee," said the Senator later to a reporter, "has now taken hold and will conduct the campaign upon the lines laid out. We hope for success, and will make as hard a fight as possible. Senator Jones is the commander in this battle, and you must go to him for particulars." This last sentence was said with an air that led one to believe that the Senator from the Terrapin State washed his hands of the whole proceedings, and was rather ashamed of his company.

MR. SMALLEY FAR FROM HAPPY

"I wish conditions were reversed and we were of Vermont, to a friend with whom he was chat-ting while he sat upon a settee in the hotel. "Then there would be money to burn. Too had we have nothing to fight with." Mr. Smalley is a "regular," and that is all that keeps him from bolting the wi ticket. He has got to retain his badge or lose his organization in Vermont. So President Cleveland's dear friend has put away his own desires and har-nessed himself to Mr. Bryan's cart. He takes it with ill grace, however, and is talking low and dolefully. He does not predict success.

Senator Pasco, of Florida, is not saying much. People say that he is waiting to see where Sepa-Call stands. Call is his colleague tor tail stands. Call is his coneague in the Senate, and there is a legend in Wash-ington that in order to get Pasco to support a bill all that is necessary is to tell him that Call opposes it. Coming from away down in the South he naturally has a warm spot in his heart for silver, and he does not seem to be shedding tears over having to support the ticket.

The absence of Mr. Sheehan, Senator Hill and Senator Murphy was commented upon, but Lemusi and he does not seem to be shedding that one having to support the ticket.

The absence of Mr. Sheehan, Senator Hill and Senator Murphy was commented upon, but Lemuel Wigger was there, and so there was no real occasion for regret. Mr. Wigger is Mr. Murphy's confidential agent, and was yesterday telling people that the Senator was down at Long Branch attending to fits health, and not bothering about politics. Congressman William Sulzer, another brand of "boy orator," whose logic is about as convincing as his figures are accurate, was around the hotel waiting for some one to talk to. He wore his hair long, as usual, and seemed to feel hurt that his windy abilities had been temporarily eclipsed by the advent of the Nebraska declaimer. Sulzer hung around Mr. Jones's room all morning, and tried to convince every one of the Importance of his Bryan and Sewall Club No. 1. He had intended to have this club act as an escort for Mr. Bryan when the Presidential candidate reached the city, but this idea was frowned upon by both Senator Jones and John C. Sheehan.

Senator Faulkner of West Virginia, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee, looked like a lamb led to the slaughter. The Senator is a handsome man, and he always looks spick and span, but yesterday he seemed to have lost his

WHY CANADA DOESN'T WANT OUR SILVER

TO LESSEN ITS CIRCULATION, WHICH

The refusal of some of the banks in Canada to receive American silver certificates except at a dis-count of 10 per cent was explained yesterday by the New-York agent of one of the large Canadian banks as follows:

It at a discount.

The Canadian banks have the right to issue bills, and the larger extent to which American money is used in Canada, the more their circulation is reduced. The one convenience of American money in Canada is its use in settling obligations in the United States.

Louis J. Rees, of Zimmermann & Forshay, bullion

and specie dealers, said:

There will not be much American money sold in Canada at a discount of 10 per cent. There would be too much profit for the purchaser and too much loss for the seller. There has been an increase in the inquiry for Canadian money as a consequence of the discount on American money. Persons in New-York having balances to settle in Canada Cormerly used American money. Now they send Canadian money is one-half of 1 per cent.

DRYGOODS BUYERS COME TO TOWN. This is the time of the year when the buyers for

At present the in their particular line of trade. At present the hotels are crowded with buyers, who hall from almost every town of importance in the country. There is unusual activity and bustle at the places where they are staying. It is said that a rough estimate of the number would be about one thousand, and this does not seem to be too high a figure. The number will be doubled by the end of the month, as many more buyers and merchants of small country stores are due here then. The buyers usually stay about a month.

MYSTERIOUS RIVERSIDE FIRES.

PROMINENT ARRIVALS AT THE HOTELS. TWO BARGES BADLY DAMAGED AND AN-OTHER SUNK-EVIDENCE OF IN-

Fires of mysterious origin broke out almost simultaneously about 3 a. m. yesterday on board two barges, which were loaded with baied hay, at the West Thirty-fourth-st. pler, Hudson River. barges were the Barney Asterman, owned by John Hankle, and the George Arnold, owned by William The fires were discovered by John Mc-Laughlin, a watchman on the pier. When the fire engines arrived the names had gained great headway, and were seriously endangering the big grain elevator Tripp, which lay alongside the barge. The firehoat Zophar Mills arrived soon afterward. however, and by the united efforts of the fireboat and engines the flames were extinguished and the elevator saved. The barges and their cargoes were badly damaged.

Horace Ingersoll, who keeps a grain market at Colorado, Brunswick, Mallory No. 646 West Thirty-fourth-st., told Fire Chief Gicquel that just before the arrival of the engines he saw a strange man jump from the George Arnold and run away up the pler. Foreman Callahan, of Engine No. 26, also saw two men jump | PORT OF NEW-YORK, TUESDAY, AUGUST II, 1894 from the same barge and run away. The fires on the barges had scarcely been extinguished when another of equally mysterious origin was discovered on board the steam barge Lizzle Henderson, at the Forty-sixth-st, plet. The Henderson had on board a cargo of barrel staves. steel and iron, destined for Philadelphia. As the flames were endangering other vessels and the pier sheds the burning barge was towed into the stream by a tug of the Street Cleaning Department. being impossible to save the vessel, the Zophar Mills, which soon arrived, started to tow her to the Jersey flats, but when off Pier A the vessel sank. Her crew were all saved. The vessel is an obstruction to navigation where she now lies, and the Chapman Wrecking Company will raise her as soon as possible. She is owned by Captain Samuel O. Walker, of Philadelphia. The loss, which is considerable, is covered by insurance. It is believed that the fires were the work of incendiaries, and the Fire Marshal is making an investigation on that basis.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION MADE.

COUNTY JUDGE LENT DECLARES THAT PRISON-ERS CANNOT BE MADE TO SERVE A DAY FOR EACH DOLLAR OF A FINE.

County Judge Smith Lent, in his chambers at Sing Sing, has made a decision in an important question concerning the legality of retaining in prison for non-payment of fine a man who has been sentenced to a term of years imprisonment and to pay a fine as an additional penalty. The Judge finds that a prisoner cannot be detained in State his fine, as has been the practice. The case was that of Frank Gately, sentenced on December 30, imprisonment in the State Prison at Sing Sing and cially addressed only), and on August 20. Those to pay a line of $730, for assault in the second degree. By allowance for good conduct, Gately's sentence of imprisonment expired July 30 of this year, and since then he has been held for the non-payment of the fine.

Francis Larkin, st., counsel for the prisoner, declared that the court had no authority to impose a fine that should be served out in State Prison, and accordingly, on Tuesday of last week, habeas corpus proceedings for the p isoner's discharge were taken before Judge Lent, Francis Larkin appearing for the prisoner, and F. L. Baykus, District-Attorney of Kings County, in opposition. Judge Lent asked that briefs be submitted which was done, and on Wednesday the Judge will hand down a decision declaring that Gately is being fliegally held, and ordering his immediate discharge from prison. The case seems to be one of which there is no precedent, and District-Attorney Backus intends to carry it to the Court of Appeals, so that it may be finally and fully decided.

THE KIOSK SCHEME DEFEATED.

ALDERMEN'S COMMITTEES REPORT AGAINST IT AND SUGGEST A SUBSTITUTE.

The Board of Aldermen met in the City Hall yesterday. The only departmental estimates thus far filed with the Board are those of the Common Council and the Eleventh Civil District Court, the former for $88,800, and the latter for $18,100. These by the clerk and ordered printed.

The Law Committee and Streets Committee of the Board reported adversely the petition of "A, B and C." Leon A. Klein and the American News Company that they individually be allowed to construct booths under the steps of the elevated railroad stations. This is the old "kiosk" scheme introduced by Alderman Noonan, and which was twice defeated by the Legislature.

There were two public hearings on the proposition and no end of discussion. The committee favors the passage of an ordinance to regulate the erection of booths for the sale of newspapers and periodicals upon these maintained at the expense of the licensee at an annual license fee to be hereafter determined; that applicants shall be citizens, live in this city, and erect the booths, the same not to be higher than seven feet, painted the same color as the elevated structure, the work to be done under the direction of the Commissioner of Fubile Works, and no license to be issued without the consent of the Manhattan Elevated Railroad Company having been first secured. The engineer of the Elevated Railroad Company must approve the plans. Aldermen Hall assents to the rejection of Klein's application, but in signing the report he says that he dissents from the proposition to make a fixed license fee, and adds that he is in favor of having an upset price placed upon the booths, and that each should be put up and auctioned off to the highest bidder.

The report was ordered printed and laid over. naintained at the expense of the licensee at an an-
